Defining Neighbors
Religion, Race, and the Early Zionist-Arab Encounter
Jonathan Marc Gribetz

“Drawing on prodigious research in a range of sources in Arabic, Hebrew, and other languages, Gribetz examines two groups—Jews and Arabs—whose national identities were developing simultaneously in Palestine around the turn of the twentieth century. He provides a broad and sympathetic portrait of the multiple ways both groups understood and fashioned these identities, which are rarely studied in tandem.”

—Rashid Khalidi, author of Brokers of Deceit: How the U.S. Has Undermined Peace in the Middle East

As the Israeli-Palestinian conflict persists, aspiring peacemakers continue to search for the precise territorial dividing line that will satisfy both Israeli and Palestinian nationalist demands. The prevailing view assumes that this struggle is nothing more than a dispute over real estate. Defining Neighbors boldly challenges this view, shedding new light on how Zionists and Arabs understood each other in the earliest years of Zionist settlement in Palestine and suggesting that the current singular focus on boundaries misses key elements of the conflict.

Poetic Trespass
Writing between Hebrew and Arabic in Israel/Palestine
Lital Levy

“This is a work of immense accomplishment dedicated to understanding what it means to write in two languages about a condition of life that is, at once, both shared and separate. Lital Levy’s critical speculations are careful and courageous as her beautiful prose moves back and forth across the borderline of Israel/Palestine, forging a way of moving toward a solidarity built of sorrow and survival, failure and hope.”

—Homi Bhabha, Harvard University

A Palestinian-Israeli poet declares a new state whose language, “Homelandic,” is a combination of Arabic and Hebrew. A Jewish-Israeli author imagines a “language plague” that infects young Hebrew speakers with old world accents, and sends the narrator in search of his Arabic heritage. In Poetic Trespass, Lital Levy brings together such startling visions to offer the first in-depth study of the relationship between Hebrew and Arabic in the literature and culture of Israel/Palestine. More than that, she presents a captivating portrait of the literary imagination’s power to transgress political boundaries and transform ideas about language and belonging.

Ancient Religions, Modern Politics
The Islamic Case in Comparative Perspective

Michael Cook

“Ancient Religions, Modern Politics is at once painstaking and panoramic. It draws on a lifetime of learning and erudition, yet is audacious in its willingness to pose—and answer—bold questions. Rich in its use of sources and convincing in its arguments, this book will be widely read and very influential.”

—Andrew F. March, author of Islam and Liberal Citizenship

“Michael Cook’s book is truly a tour de force. Cook covers an impressive range of material and deals meticulously with key issues. Ancient Religions, Modern Politics is destined to be a landmark in the comparison of religions.”

—Christophe Jaffrelot, author of The Hindu Nationalist Movement in India

Why does Islam play a larger role in contemporary politics than other religions? Is there something about the Islamic heritage that makes Muslims more likely than adherents of other faiths to invoke it in their political life? If so, what is it? Ancient Religions, Modern Politics seeks to answer these questions by examining the roles of Islam, Hinduism, and Christianity in modern political life, placing special emphasis on the relevance—or irrelevance—of their heritages to today’s social and political concerns.

The Jews of Islam

Bernard Lewis

“As we might expect from the foremost and most prolific of today’s Orientalists … The Jews of Islam is an elegant and masterly survey.”

“Lewis refuses … simplistic approaches and tries to explain the complex and often contradictory history of Jewish-Muslim relations over fourteen hundred years. He does this in prose that combines eloquence, dispensation, and wit.”

—Norman A. Stillman, New York Review of Books

“In this pioneering and masterful primer, the distinguished Princeton historian Bernard Lewis presents a systematic overview of how Jews fared in various Muslim countries at different times.”

—Jacob Neusner, Boston Globe

The Muqaddimah
An Introduction to History
Ibn Khaldûn
Translated and introduced by Franz Rosenthal
Abridged and edited by N. J. Dawood
With an introduction by Bruce B. Lawrence

"Undoubtedly the greatest work of its kind that has ever been created by any mind in any time or place."
—Arnold J. Toynbee, Observer

The Muqaddimah is the most important Islamic history of the premodern world. Written by the renowned fourteenth-century Arab scholar Ibn Khaldûn (d. 1406), this monumental work established the foundations of several fields of knowledge, including the philosophy of history, sociology, ethnography, and economics. The first complete English translation was published in three volumes in 1958 and received immediate acclaim in the United States and abroad. A one-volume abridged version first appeared in 1969.

This new Princeton Classics edition of the abridged version includes Franz Rosenthal’s original introduction as well as a contemporary introduction by Bruce B. Lawrence.

Lost Enlightenment
Central Asia’s Golden Age from the Arab Conquest to Tamerlane
S. Frederick Starr

“Lost Enlightenment brilliantly re-creates for us the world of Central Asia, which for centuries was not a backwater but a center of world civilization. With a sure mastery of the large historical sweep as well as an eye for detail, Fred Starr has written an important book that will be a resource for years to come.”
—Francis Fukuyama, author of The Origins of Political Order

“Lost Enlightenment is a remarkable and accessible scholarly tour de force.”
—David Morgan, Times Literary Supplement

In this sweeping and richly illustrated history, S. Frederick Starr tells the fascinating but largely unknown story of Central Asia’s medieval enlightenment through the eventful lives and astonishing accomplishments of its greatest minds—remarkable figures who built a bridge to the modern world. Lost Enlightenment chronicles this forgotten age of achievement, seeks to explain its rise, and explores the competing theories about the cause of its eventual demise.

Being German, Becoming Muslim
Race, Religion, and Conversion in the New Europe
Esra Özyürek

“Through thoughtful portraits, Özyürek explores the dilemmas faced by converts to Islam in Germany, where new Muslims are seeking nonethnic forms of the religion. She shows how these converts are finding an original way to be German through their Islam—a discovery that seems dangerous to some in the German state. A clear, convincing account of new Muslims in a European land.”
—John Bowen, author of Can Islam Be French?

“This book offers both a call and a hope. Özyürek shows the tremendous role of Muslim converts in making Islam a German and European religion, and she calls converts to meet this challenge. She also presents the common hope of everyone ‘living together’ in unity, and her book is an important contribution to the achievement of this goal.”
—Tariq Ramadan, University of Oxford

Being German, Becoming Muslim provides a fresh window into the connections and tensions stemming from a growing religious phenomenon in Germany and beyond.

Young Islam
The New Politics of Religion in Morocco and the Arab World
Avi Max Spiegel

“Spiegel asks timely questions about the conclusions that have been drawn about Islamists in Morocco and the Arab world more broadly. Using an enormous amount of ethnographic analysis and a very sensitive appreciation of Moroccan history and culture, he offers a sophisticated corrective to the stereotypes. This is a significant achievement.”
—Clark B. Lombardi, University of Washington School of Law

Today, two-thirds of all Arab Muslims are under the age of thirty. Young Islam takes readers inside the evolving competition for their support.

How Anti-Muslim Fringe Organizations Became Mainstream
Christopher Bail

“Many Americans are terrified of Islam, or at least of a version of Islam portrayed in the mainstream media. As this pioneering and well-researched book demonstrates, the first step to combat this error is to expose its sources. Terrified is a necessary read for all who care about freedom of speech and protection of minorities as foundational American rights.”

—Bruce B. Lawrence, author of Shattering the Myth: Islam beyond Violence

“In this important and groundbreaking book, Bail uses a rich combination of data to map the efforts of civil society organizations to shape the popular understanding of Islam in the wake of September 11. Empirically rich and theoretically compelling, Terrified will find a large and receptive audience among those interested in September 11, Islam, and the dynamics of cultural change.”

On the Muslim Question
Anne Norton

“This is an extraordinary book—an impassioned, astute, and erudite critique that strongly refutes the ‘clash of civilizations’ rhetoric and the stereotypes shaping contemporary discussions of Muslims in the West. It further proposes a concrete alternative vision of democracy in diverse societies. The argument is original and sophisticated and the writing is beautiful—graceful, assertive, and clear. I think this book will achieve instant status as a classic of our time.”

The Year Civilization Collapsed
Eric H. Cline
“Cline has created an excellent, concise survey of the major players of the time, the latest archaeological developments, and the major arguments, including his own theories, regarding the nature of the collapse that fundamentally altered the area around the Mediterranean and the Near East…. This admirable introduction to the study of the era between the glorious past of Egypt (the Great Pyramid was already 1,500 years old) and the rise of Classical Greece (another 750 years away) will be appreciated by both generalists and classics buffs.”
—Evan M. Anderson, Library Journal
Turning Points in Ancient History
2014. 264 pages. 10 halftones. 2 maps.

Byzantine Matters
Averil Cameron
“Tackling some of the most controversial issues posed by the millennial history of Byzantium, Averil Cameron boldly confronts questions of identity, ethnicity, and continuity of language and religious practice, as well as notoriously difficult topics such as Hellenism and Orthodoxy. Through a comparative analysis of interpretations and cultural attitudes, she demonstrates both the indisputable significance of Byzantium in the medieval world and its continuing importance today.”
—Judith Herrin, author of Margins and Metropolis and Unrivalled Influence 2014. 184 pages. 11 halftones. 3 maps.

Dictionary of Untranslatables
A Philosophical Lexicon
Edited by Barbara Cassin
Translation edited by Emily Apter, Jacques Lezra & Michael Wood
“[W]hat may be the weirdest book the twenty-first century has so far produced…. [T]his is a considerable and entertaining book, full of odd words beautifully, at times owlishly, annotated.”
—Adam Gopnik, New Yorker
“[G]reat success…. By preserving the specificity of words in their source languages, but then proceeding though so many near-synonyms in other tongues, the Dictionary bridges this ideological divide, providing a different way of understanding what it is to be in, and between, languages.”
—Tom Bunstead, Independent on Sunday
Translation/Transnation
2014. 1344 pages.
Cl: 978-0-691-13870-1 $65.00 | £44.95
