“Singer’s theory of the expanding circle remains an enormously insightful concept, which reconciles the existence of human nature with political and moral progress. It was also way ahead of its time…. It’s wonderful to see this insightful book made available to a new generation of readers and scholars.”
—Steven Pinker, author of The Blank Slate and The Stuff of Thought

“The Expanding Circle is a brilliant book whose significance becomes clearer every year. Peter Singer was the first major philosopher to see the importance of the new Darwinian insights into human nature, and in this book he applies them with characteristic power and grace.”
—Robert Wright, author of The Moral Animal

What is ethics? Where do moral standards come from? Are they based on emotions, reason, or some innate sense of right and wrong? For many scientists, the key lies entirely in biology—especially in Darwinian theories of evolution and self-preservation. But if evolution is a struggle for survival, why are we still capable of altruism?

In his classic study The Expanding Circle, Peter Singer argues that altruism began as a genetically based drive to protect one’s kin and community members but has developed into a consciously chosen ethic with an expanding circle of moral concern. Drawing on philosophy and evolutionary psychology, he demonstrates that human ethics cannot be explained by biology alone. Rather, it is our capacity for reasoning that makes moral progress possible.

Peter Singer is the Ira W. DeCamp Professor of Bioethics in the University Center for Human Values at Princeton University and Laureate Professor at the University of Melbourne.

Braintrust
What Neuroscience Tells Us about Morality
Patricia S. Churchland

“This is a terrific, clear, and finely sensitive account of human moral and social behavior and its neurobiological—and decidedly secular—underpinnings. Patricia Churchland once again leads the way.”

“Few areas of science are as relevant for the future of humanity as the science of morality, and few scholars are as prepared to comment on its current status as Patricia Churchland. She has exactly the right background to carve out an original approach to the problem, and the skills needed to lead the reader to solid new facts while being merciless with exaggerated claims and sloppy thinking. Braintrust is vintage Churchland, only better.”
—Antonio Damasio, author of Descartes’s Error

What is morality? Where does it come from? And why do most of us heed its call most of the time? In Braintrust, neurophilosophy pioneer Patricia Churchland argues that morality originates in the biology of the brain. She describes the “neurobiological platform of bonding” that, modified by evolutionary pressures and cultural values, has led to human styles of moral behavior. The result is a provocative genealogy of morals that asks us to reevaluate the priority given to religion, absolute rules, and pure reason in accounting for the basis of morality.

Patricia S. Churchland is professor emerita of philosophy at the University of California, San Diego, and an adjunct professor at the Salk Institute.

Soul Dust
The Magic of Consciousness
Nicholas Humphrey

“Just as fairy dust sprinkled on the mundane world turns it to gold, soul dust converts animal flesh into the enchanted world of sensation and self-consciousness. The result is illusion, but the illusion in which we live. This challenging and original book combines scientific rigor and exquisite sensitivity to the thoughts of philosophers, poets, writers, religious thinkers, and humanists. A delightful and thought-provoking tour de force.”
—Simon Blackburn, author of Think: A Compelling Introduction to Philosophy

How is consciousness possible? What biological purpose does it serve? And why do we value it so highly? In Soul Dust, the psychologist Nicholas Humphrey, a leading figure in consciousness research, proposes a startling new theory. Consciousness, he argues, is nothing less than a magical-mystery show that we stage for ourselves inside our own heads. This self-made show lights up the world for us and makes us feel special and transcendent. Thus consciousness paves the way for spirituality, and allows us, as human beings, to reap the rewards, and anxieties, of living in what Humphrey calls the “soul niche.”

Nicholas Humphrey has held posts at Oxford and Cambridge universities, and is now professor emeritus of psychology at the London School of Economics.

Meaning in Life and Why It Matters

Susan Wolf

With commentary by John Koethe, Robert M. Adams, Nomy Arpaly & Jonathan Haidt

“Susan Wolf’s picture of what makes life meaningful is at once powerful and down to earth, deeply argued but unpretentious. Part of Wolf’s persuasive force comes from her stylish prose and cool treatment of profound concerns. This book is absorbing and a pleasure to read.”

—Kieran Setiya, University of Pittsburgh

Most people, including philosophers, tend to classify human motives as falling into one of two categories: the egoistic or the altruistic, the self-interested or the moral. According to Susan Wolf, however, much of what motivates us does not comfortably fit into this scheme. Often we act neither for our own sake nor out of duty or an impersonal concern for the world. Rather, we act out of love for objects that we rightly perceive as worthy of love—and it is these actions that give meaning to our lives. Written in a lively and engaging style, and full of provocative examples, Meaning in Life and Why It Matters is a profound and original reflection on a subject of permanent human concern.

What Is Meaning?
Scott Soames

“This is a highly original book from a major figure in the philosophy of language. Scott Soames approaches classic problems about intentionality and the unity of the proposition in a new way. The writing and argumentation are admirably clear and straightforward, and there are careful historical discussions. This book makes an important contribution.”
—Robert Stalnaker, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The tradition descending from Frege and Russell has typically treated theories of meaning either as theories of meanings (propositions expressed), or as theories of truth conditions. However, propositions of the classical sort don’t exist, and truth conditions can’t provide all the information required by a theory of meaning. In this book, one of the world’s leading philosophers of language offers a way out of this dilemma.

Strikingly original, What Is Meaning? is a major advance.

Knowing Full Well
Ernest Sosa

“Knowing Full Well is one of the most significant contributions to epistemology in the last twenty years. This is a brilliant book.”
—Ram Neta, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

In this book, Ernest Sosa explains the nature of knowledge through an approach first originated by him, known as virtue epistemology. Here he provides the first comprehensive account of his views on epistemic normativity as a form of performance normativity on two levels. On a first level is found the normativity of the apt performance, whose success manifests the performer’s competence. On a higher level is found the normativity of the meta-apt performance, which manifests not necessarily first-order skill or competence but rather the reflective good judgment required for proper risk assessment. Sosa develops this bi-level account in multiple ways, by applying it to issues much disputed in recent epistemology: epistemic agency, how knowledge is normatively related to action, the knowledge norm of assertion, and the Meno problem as to how knowledge exceeds merely true belief.

Ernest Sosa is the Board of Governors Professor of Philosophy at Rutgers University.

The Pragmatism Reader
From Peirce through the Present
Edited by Robert B. Talisse & Scott F. Aikin

"With an excellent selection of papers by all the classical pragmatists and a very well judged collection of pieces by more recent philosophers sympathetic to pragmatism, this superb volume provides material for a successful course on pragmatism and also offers readers a fascinating overview of its varieties."
—Christopher Hookway, University of Sheffield

The Pragmatism Reader is the essential anthology of this important philosophical movement. Each selection featured here is a key writing by a leading pragmatist thinker, and represents a distinctively pragmatist approach to a core philosophical problem. The collection includes work by pragmatism's founders, Charles Peirce, William James, and John Dewey, as well as seminal writings by mid-twentieth-century pragmatists such as Sidney Hook, C. I. Lewis, Nelson Goodman, Rudolf Carnap, Wilfrid Sellars, and W.V.O. Quine. This reader also includes the most important work in contemporary pragmatism by philosophers like Susan Haack, Cornel West, Hilary Putnam, Richard Rorty, Cheryl Misak, and Robert Brandom. Each selection is a stand-alone piece—not an excerpt or book chapter—and each is presented fully unabridged.

Eco-Republic
What the Ancients Can Teach Us about Ethics, Virtue, and Sustainable Living
Melissa Lane

"This is a provocative and powerful book. Lane recommends the ethical vision of Greek antiquity rather than a society of individuals following legal rules. Such a vision is, Lane argues, a sustainable one—bringing ethics, ecology, and politics together."
—Justin Champion, Royal Holloway, University of London

An ecologically sustainable society cannot be achieved without citizens who possess the virtues and values that will foster it, and who believe that individual actions can indeed make a difference. Eco-Republic draws on ancient Greek thought—and Plato's Republic in particular—to put forward a new vision of citizenship that can make such a society a reality.

The Ethics of Voting

“Brennan’s book is provocative in the best sense of the word—a fresh and challenging approach to important matters in political theory and political ethics. It is also a remarkably accessible book that manages to capture nuances and subtleties without unnecessary complication or jargon. In these respects, The Ethics of Voting is a model of how political philosophy should proceed.”
—Richard Dagger, University of Richmond

Nothing is more integral to democracy than voting. Most people believe that every citizen has the civic duty or moral obligation to vote, that any sincere vote is morally acceptable, and that buying, selling, or trading votes is inherently wrong. In this provocative book, Jason Brennan challenges our fundamental assumptions about voting, revealing why it is not a duty for most citizens—in fact, he argues, many people owe it to the rest of us not to vote.

Robert J. Fogelin

“Robert Fogelin is absolutely right to take Wittgenstein’s methodological statements seriously and to focus on the primary texts rather than to be guided by fashionable interpretations. Fogelin’s reading is perceptive and sensible, the key concepts around which he organizes his interpretation are judiciously chosen, and the book is clearly written.” —Severin Schroeder, Reading University

Social Conventions
From Language to Law
Andrei Marmor

“This book will be of great philosophical interest, especially to social and legal philosophers. Marmor’s view is original and represents an important alternative to the dominant (Lewisian) conception of social conventions. He sketches his theory on a large canvas and applies it to several different areas of social life. He writes with admirable clarity, directness, and simplicity.” —Gerald Postema, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

The Apologetics of Evil
The Case of Iago
Richard Raatzsch
Translated by Ladislaus Löb

“This original, deeply felt, clearly written, and well-argued book combines Shakespearean analysis, moral philosophy, psychology, and philosophy of literature—all in a succinct, unified, and impressive way.” —Richard Eldridge, Swarthmore College

The Pursuit of Laziness
An Idle Interpretation of the Enlightenment
Pierre Saint-Amand
Translated by Jennifer Curtiss Gage

“Seductive and charming, this is a little gem of a book. I was won over by the author’s fresh insights and playful, yet lucid, tone.”
—Darrin M. McMahon, author of Happiness: A History

Unsettling the stubborn view of the eighteenth century as an age of frenetic industriousness and labor, The Pursuit of Laziness plumbs the texts and images of the time and uncovers deliberate yearnings for slowness and recreation.

Pierre Saint-Amand is the Francis Wayland Professor of French Studies and Comparative Literature at Brown University.

Divine Machines
Leibniz and the Sciences of Life
Justin E. H. Smith

“I can not overstate how important Divine Machines is to Leibniz studies and the history of early modern philosophy and science. There is so much material here, so many sources, so many arguments, so many connections made, that even as I write this I am distracted by thoughts of the many avenues of research Smith has opened up to the rest of us. Divine Machines is a watershed moment.”

The Symptom and the Subject
The Emergence of the Physical Body in Ancient Greece
Brooke Holmes

“Brilliant and important, this book tackles nothing less than the discovery of the body as a cultural and conceptual category in Greek antiquity. The book ranges over Homer and archaic poetry, the Sophists, philosophy, tragedy, and—most unusually and originally—the medical writings of the Hippocratic corpus, to construct a compelling account of historical developments.”

Machiavelli’s God
Maurizio Viroli
Translated by Antony Shugaar

In Machiavelli’s God, Maurizio Viroli, one of the world’s leading authorities on Machiavelli, argues that Machiavelli, far from opposing Christianity, thought it was crucial to republican social and political renewal—but that first it needed to be renewed itself. And without understanding this, Viroli contends, it is impossible to comprehend Machiavelli’s thought.

Maurizio Viroli is professor of politics at Princeton University.

Art of the Modern Age
Philosophy of Art from Kant to Heidegger
Jean-Marie Schaeffer

“Art of the Modern Age is an important contribution to the field, and its readership should not be limited to philosophers. While Schaeffer is not afraid to do the necessary detail work, he never gets mired in issues of merely scholastic interest.”
—F. L. Rush, Bookforum

This is a sweeping and provocative work of aesthetic theory: a trenchant critique of the philosophy of art as it developed from the eighteenth century to the early twentieth century, combined with a carefully reasoned plea for a new and more flexible approach to art.

Love’s Vision
Troy Jollimore

“Love’s Vision is a delight to read. Jollimore’s sensitive, careful philosophical examination of the experience of loving, combined with insights from literature and social psychology, yields a compelling picture of love as a form of perception. Jollimore’s view is original and offers a fresh and productive approach to some of the thorniest philosophical puzzles about love.”
—Simon Keller, Victoria University of Wellington

Love often seems uncontrollable and irrational, but we just as frequently appear to have reasons for loving the people we do. In Love’s Vision, Troy Jollimore offers a new way of understanding love that accommodates both of these facts, arguing that love is guided by reason even as it resists and sometimes eludes rationality. At the same time, he reconsiders love’s moral status, acknowledging its moral dangers while arguing that it is, at heart, a moral phenomenon—an emotion that demands empathy and calls us away from excessive self-concern. Love is revealed as neither wholly moral nor deeply immoral, neither purely rational nor profoundly irrational. Rather, as Diotima says in Plato’s Symposium, love is “something in between.”

Troy Jollimore is associate professor of philosophy at California State University, Chico.

The Closed Commercial State
Perpetual Peace and Commercial Society from Rousseau to Fichte
Isaac Nakhimovsky

“This clear and carefully written book does an excellent job of explaining the importance and historical context of an interesting work by a major nineteenth-century philosopher. The author’s knowledge of the primary text, Fichte’s other texts, and the relevant secondary literature is impeccable. This book will greatly interest intellectual historians and historians of philosophy who specialize in nineteenth-century European thought.”
—Frederick Neuhouser, Barnard College, Columbia University

This book presents an important new account of Johann Gottlieb Fichte’s Closed Commercial State, a major early nineteenth-century development of Rousseau and Kant’s political thought. Isaac Nakhimovsky shows how Fichte reformulated Rousseau’s constitutional politics and radicalized the economic implications of Kant’s social contract theory with his defense of the right to work.

Isaac Nakhimovsky is a junior research fellow at Emmanuel College, University of Cambridge.

Managed Democracy and the Specter of Inverted Totalitarianism
Sheldon S. Wolin

 “[A] comprehensive diagnosis of our failings as a democratic polity by one of our most seasoned and respected political philosophers…. Democracy Incorporated is a devastating critique of the contemporary government of the United States—including what has happened to it in recent years and what must be done if it is not to disappear into history along with its classic totalitarian predecessors.”

Untying the Knot
Marriage, the State, and the Case for Their Divorce
Tamara Metz

“In clear and jargon-free writing, Tamara Metz makes a persuasive case for the separation of marriage and the state. Readers who pick up this book to inform themselves about the same-sex marriage debate will be led to wonder why the state involves itself in marriage at all.”

Reason and Rationality
Jon Elster
Translated by Steven Rendall

“This short book presents a broad synthesis of Jon Elster’s work on reason and rationality, and their complex relations to interest and passion. With clarity and elegance, it presents some of the main positions of one of the most important authors on the subject. Reason and Rationality is a pleasure to read.”

The Recursive Mind
The Origins of Human Thought, Language, and Civilization
Michael C. Corballis

“Corballis offers a novel synthesis of language, mental time travel, and theory of mind within an evolutionary perspective. The Recursive Mind is very well written for a general readership, but with lots of targeted references for experts.”
—Michael A. Arbib, coauthor of The Construction of Reality

The Recursive Mind challenges the commonly held notion that language is what makes us uniquely human. In this compelling book, Michael Corballis argues that what distinguishes us in the animal kingdom is our capacity for recursion: the ability to embed our thoughts within other thoughts. "I think, therefore I am" is an example of recursive thought, because the thinker has inserted himself into his thought. Recursion enables us to conceive of our own minds and the minds of others. It also gives us the power of mental "time travel" — the ability to insert past experiences, or imagined future ones, into present consciousness.

Michael C. Corballis is professor emeritus of psychology at the University of Auckland in New Zealand.

Kierkegaard’s Journals and Notebooks
Edited by Niels Jørgen Cappelørn, Alastair Hannay, David Kangas, Bruce H. Kirmmse, George Pattison, Vanessa Rumble & K. Brian Søderquist, in cooperation with the Søren Kierkegaard Research Centre, Copenhagen

Volume 1
Journals AA–DD

Volume 1 is the first English translation and commentary of Kierkegaard’s journals based on up-to-date scholarship. It offers new insight into Kierkegaard’s inner life. In addition to early drafts of his published works, the journals contain his thoughts on current events and philosophical and theological matters, notes on books he was reading, miscellaneous jottings, and ideas for future literary projects.

2007. 616 pages. 19 halftones. 9 tables. 4 maps.
Cl: 978-0-691-09222-5 $85.00 | £59.00

Volume 2
Journals EE–KK

Volume 2 includes materials from 1836 to 1846, a period that takes Kierkegaard from his student days to the peak of his activity as an author. In addition to containing hundreds of Kierkegaard’s reflections on philosophy, theology, literature, and his own personal life, these journals are the seedbed of many ideas and passages that later surfaced in Either/Or, Repetition, Fear and Trembling, Philosophical Fragments, The Concept of Anxiety, Stages on Life’s Way, Concluding Unscientific Postscript, and a number of Edifying Discourses.

Cl: 978-0-691-13344-7 $105.00 | £72.00

Volume 3
Notebooks 1–15

Volume 3 of this 11-volume edition includes Kierkegaard’s extensive notes on lectures by the Danish theologian H. N. Clausen and by the German philosopher Schelling, as well as a great many other entries on philosophical, theological, and literary topics. In addition, the volume includes many personal reflections by Kierkegaard.

2010. 864 pages. 10 halftones.

Augustine’s Confessions
A Biography
Garry Wills

“Garry Wills rescues Augustine’s Confessions from its posterity, peeling away layer after layer of anachronistic reactions to the text and providing an invaluable aid to readers. A master restorer, Wills gives us a picture carefully cleaned of a millennium-and-a-half of varnish. . . . This is vintage Wills—punchy, clear, well-argued, and beautifully translated, both linguistically and culturally.”

The Wind from the East
French Intellectuals, the Cultural Revolution, and the Legacy of the 1960s
Richard Wolin

“The Wind From the East must be regarded as a monument of committed scholarship. It is also a fascinating chronicle of people who, however ludicrous they may seem at times, did on occasion think and act with profound seriousness. For that reason the book is a valuable addition to the literature of the era.”

The Law Is a White Dog
How Legal Rituals Make and Unmake Persons
Colin Dayan

“In language that is searing and lyrical, evocative and precise, this exceptional book thinks with the zombies, specters, felons, slaves, dogs, cadavers, and other entities that are the remnants of loss and dispossession in the law. Dogs and people are abundantly present here, even as the legal fictions they are made to inhabit are exposed with acid lucidity. These are hard histories made readable by Dayan’s precious acts of writing.”
